

human anatomy

love is found in the chest along with fear and heartache and other anxieties the fluttering of unease the resounding rattle of loneliness they can all be found there too crushing the rib cage and soft tissues